

is for fox, who frolicks in the freshly frosted forest

Rachel Jan 18 Reply

Let's edit the words for sentence parallelism to the other pages. "f is for fox, frolicking in the freshly frosted forest"

Add a reply...

Post

is for jackrabbit, a hare extraordinaire

Rachel Jan 18 Reply

Had a hard time finding the j on this picture. What about moving it to the right side of the page in that brown swath? Or changing the color?

is for prairie rattlesnake, who slithers and shakes

Rachel Jan 18 Reply

In order to be consistent with what you've done on the other pages, you need to delete the word "prairie" so that the focus is on "r" for "rattlesnake."

Also, let's make some adjustments to make it parallel to what you've got on most of your other pages. "r is for rattlesnake, slithering and shaking"

Add a reply...

Post